Gray Technologies Press Publishes First Title

The Hounds of Love* is a story in verse.
Your heart will pound to ever beat.

Bel Air, Maryland – September 29, 2004 – Gray Technologies Press (www.graytechpress.com), an independent publisher of original works of literary art by new artists, is pleased to announce the completion of its first published title, The Hounds of Love. This publication represents the first in a line of exciting new titles of poetry and other avant-garde literary works and spin-offs that Gray Technologies Press has planned.

The Hounds of Love is a collection of poems that tell a familiar story in an unrestrained free verse form. This is a story of love discovered, love lived, love lost, and love resolved and rediscovered. In this story, love has no form, no rules, and no boundaries. It is free and it is loose and it is dogged by all of us, relentlessly. Like a pack of hounds on a hunt, it is a game, with one prize, and one loser.

The author, Mark Allen Gray, holds a Master of Science degree in computer science from Johns Hopkins University. Since childhood, Mark has been an avid student of literature and enjoys writing, in particular, capturing and condensing life events and emotions into poems. Mark's style draws on the creative, logical, and technical elements of computer science in his professional life and blends them with the raw emotional events and experiences of his personal life. Mark's major literary and poetic influences include Ernest Hemingway, John Steinbeck, Jack Kerouac, Jim Morrison, and Charles Baudelaire.

Love is a big subject to explore. Writers and artists of all types have been driven by its mystery, thrill, and madness for many millennia. It is the author's hope that the reader will find some entertainment or healing value in this small story.

About Gray Technologies Press

Gray Technologies Press is a small independent publisher of original works of literary art in print and digital formats. The focus of the press is on the development of new artists and the application of new publishing technologies on their original works. The primary goal of the press is to maximize the accessibility, utility, and quality of their products while minimizing the cost of these products to consumers. According to the president, Mark Gray, "We continue to strive to meet our goal by persistent research, development, and application of new publishing technologies and methods. We will work with new artists to best express and transform their works into new creations of word, sight, and sound worthy of sharing with the world."
